

Book-Cadillac Hotel

Downtown Detroit, 1924

Louis Kamper, Architect

The Book-Cadillac Hotel, one of the grandest buildings in Detroit, is currently undergoing a $150 million restoration, after being abandoned since the mid-1980's. This illustration is the first of many for a new Bidlack poster showcasing the magnificent skyscrapers erected in downtown Detroit during the first half of the 20th century.